Planet Earth

In the distant future, on the planet Wakanda lives a developed civilization that has a basic goal; to find the most suitable planet to continue their lives prospering, as their own fails to provide them with the necessary resources. So, they have created a special team that has undertaken a mission to explore the whole universe to find this exquisite planet.

One day, the group, which was called Elite Force, begins its most distant journey to the universe. For this mission, they have built a state-of-the-art spacecraft that can travel at speeds which far exceed the speed of light and is powered by renewable fuels. Within a few days they enter a galaxy unknown to them until then. They wandered in it for days watching millions of planets until they found one who impressed them the most.

It looked very much like Wakanda when they arrived at it. Therefore, they decided to get closer to this extraordinary planet, by applying their plan. They started by observing the appearance of the inhabitants of the planet and disguising themselves like them. Afterwards, they learnt their language and behaviour trying to imitate them. They noticed that this planet was called Earth!

After all, they began to observe the planet more carefully. They were impressed by the abundant amount of water that existed, as well as the varied soil morphology, since many areas combined mountains with plains, while others were polar and others were deserted. This meant that natural resources were abundant, affordable and diverse.

For that reason, they decided to communicate with the other Wakanda residents, inviting them to come to the new planet they had discovered. When they arrived, they threatened everyone in Earth to wipe them out or to transfer them to the planet Wakanda. Without having a choice the residents of Earth accepted the removal.

When the people from Earth arrived on the planet Wakanda, realized that it was a deserted planet. And so the future of the earthly civilization was doomed...
